

If Wave Jam competition is capable of bringing out the big guns, such as Andy King, and getting them sailing in conditions like this, then bring it on. It's what we want to see and will only be fantastic for windsurfing in Britain and the standard of our up and coming sailors. We look forwards to the fourth event coming up whenever it's next windy, but until then, make sure you turn to page 62 for a bit of a run down of this stonking third stab at the cake, by the faultless Russ Tetlow and Steve Thorpe.

Photo by: Russ Tetlow | www.stinknp.com

